TO ARBITRATE MATTER?

International Law and Arbitration
Commission May Be Called Upon to Act.

Washington, Aug. 4.—State department officials today were preparing the answer which the United States will make to Great Britain's reply on the latest American representation against interference with American commerce.

Great Britain, in her note published today, refuses to accept the American contention that the order in council is illegal, and justified the British course as being wholly within international law.

Great Britain, it is declared, will continue to apply the orders in council, but with every effort to avoid embarrassment to neutrals.

The German note regarding the sinking of the American ship, Wm. P. Frye, probably will be given out late today for publication tomorrow morning.

Note is Ready.

President Wilson's reply to Great Britain's latest note rejecting the American demand for interference with neutral commerce under orders in council, virtually is ready to be dispatched to London.

Although Great Britain's notes were made public only last night and state department received them only Monday, the American government knew the British views through informal conferences between American and British officials here and in London and framed its reply before the notes actually were received. It is believed there will be little change in answer already prepared when it goes to London.

Admitting that usual conditions which Great Britain contends are basis for exceptional action, the American reply will continue to contest the legality of taking ships from the high seas on voyages from neutral ports. It is understood the American government will differentiate from ships on the high seas and ships which go to British ports and which attempt to run blockade lines.

The British argument that American commerce also has not suffered also will be contested.

In all quarters it seems to be agreed the controversy has reached a state of academic discussion with some evidence of trend toward ultimate submission to an international arbitral commission as a way out of the deadlock.

ROUMANIA NO FACTOR
AS HELP TO GERMANY
BERLIN PAPER WARNSCount in Editorial Discourages the Thought That Country Can Be Reckoned As Aid in Struggle.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, via London, Aug. 4.—A warning that nothing can be expected from Roumania is conveyed to the readers of the Tages Zeitung, in an editorial this morning by Count Ernst Reventlow. His article, which is headed "Roumania's falling quotation," summarizes the situation in the following paragraph:

"Those friendly relations with Roumania, which have been fostered by tradition and on the German side by firm confidence—can hardly longer be considered as existing."

Count Reventlow points out Roumania's refusal to permit exports of grain or to permit ammunition for the Turks to pass through its territory, although Russia was permitted to transport munitions to Serbia. He says it had been hoped Roumania would fulfill its treaty obligations or preserve at least an upright and well-wishing neutrality, but that the contrary came to pass. Roumania's neutrality became molested, he asserts, with tendency to enter the conflict on the side of Germany's enemies.

The importance of Roumania's aid to Germany and Turkey has been greatly lessened, however, Count Reventlow insists. Before Russia's Galician defeat, Roumania would have been a military factor in co-operation with the Muscovites, he says, but that time is past and her military and political value as opponent of Germany is vanishing. The period when Roumania could be considered a leading factor in the development of the Balkan states has gone by, the article declares.

MISS PAGE WEDDED

Great Britain Has Simple Wed-

Troubles.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

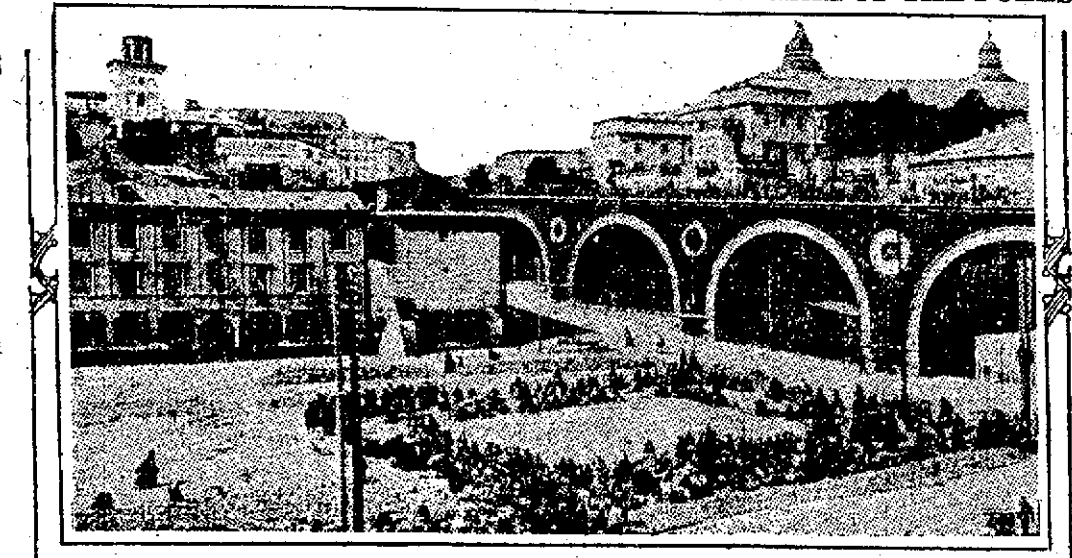

London, Aug. 4.—Miss Katherine Alice Page, daughter of the American ambassador to Great Britain, and Mrs. Walter Hines Page, was married at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon at the Royal Chapel, St. James palace, to Charles Grey Loring, son of General Charles Loring of Boston. The bride was given away by her father, and her brother, Frank Page, was Mr. Loring's best man. The wedding was very simple because the ambassador's family desired to avoid anything resembling a social function while the war is in progress.

Chandler, Okla., Aug. 4.—Few more new witnesses remained to be called by the state when the trial of Claude Sawyer, who participated in the bank robbery at Strout, Okla., last March, was resumed today in district court. Lewis Estes, who pleaded guilty to similar charges, yesterday testified that Sawyer was a member of the Henry Starr gang which committed the robbery. Counsel for the defendant have announced Sawyer will establish an alibi.

Cracow is the center of Polish culture, the shrine at which the Polish nationalist adores the vanished glories of his race, but Warsaw is the center of Polish life. DEMAND INDEMNITY
FOR GERMAN STATES
IN SOUTH AFRICABoer Political Leaders Believe They Should Be Re-paid for Their Warring Efforts.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Aug. 4.—"The only conditions on which the Union of South Africa would be willing to relinquish the German South African territory recently captured, would be upon the payment of a large indemnity," said J. von Schreder, who has been sent to this country to study American agricultural methods. "I do not give this as my personal opinion," he said. "It seems to be the overwhelming sentiment both among Boer political leaders and the mass of the people."

"The Union of South Africa sacrificed a great deal in making this campaign against the Germans and they deserve a great deal of credit when you consider that they did not regard themselves as necessarily involved in the war and also because they received no help from England in the way of money or arms. We did get a loan of $35,000,000 from England but without this it would have been impossible for us to make this campaign. In fact the loan was made not so much for our request but at the behest of the British government which wished us to drive the Germans out of South Africa. At that time the money was not a gift and will be repaid without a moment of delay unless the British government should voluntarily offer to cancel the loan."

Make Up for Loss.
"In consideration of these facts it can hardly be expected that the Union of South Africa would look with any degree of favor on the prospect of having to return to Germany her hard earned money. There has been given her in return enough money to make up for the economic loss."

have heard some talk that perhaps the British government might be willing to grant the Boers a larger measure of home rule if they gave up the conquered territory, but that is impossible. We have a great measure of home rule now as is possible if we are still to remain a colony of England. Any further concession on England's part and we would become a free and independent state."

"And that brings me to remark on the danger to England which would result in the event that she endeavored to force conditions upon the Union of South Africa at the conclusion of the war which we did not favor. During the recent rebellion led by Gen. De Wet there were many citizens, some of them now in the state, who, while not taking part physically in the rebellion, were yet in sympathy with the movement and only refused their actual physical aid because they did not think it was the time to endanger England's existence by adding to her already great troubles. But should England, at the conclusion of the war, act in a manner inconsistent with the spirit of independence and love of liberty of the Boers, she might bring about a rebellion which would assume serious proportions."

African Side.
"And it is quite likely that England, that is the British Isles, would not enjoy the notion of the Union of South Africa as an independent state. Not because she has any bullying ambitions to possess the country but because she realizes how valuable we are in furnishing her with needed supplies. We are now sending her vast quantities of grain, wool, hides, and with the acquisition of German South Africa we will be able to send her a great deal of beet."

As a British colony it is not probable that we would ever impose any tariffs on exports which would be unfavorable to the home country, but were we independent and should such legislation in any time appear advantageous to us, there would be no reason why we should then hesitate to improve our economic resources in that way. Considering the Union of South Africa as a source of English supplies in time of war, our importance as a British colony will easily be seen. Were we independent and were England to go to war again, it might easily be possible that our supplies would be totally denied England."

Friday evening, Aug. 6, the ladies' class of the First Christian church, will have a social in the church parlors from 7.30 p. m. to 10 p. m. The young ladies' class are also invited. Mrs. M. Lee, President; Mrs. C. Beldridge, Secretary.

REACH COMPROMISE
IN FEE RESOLUTIONNON-RESIDENT STUDENTS GRANT-ED REDUCTION IN AMEND-MENT CONCURRED IN.

REGENTS MAY REFUND

Five Per Cent May Be Returned On Basis of Scholastic Merit.—Norgord Appointment Confirmed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Aug. 4.—The senate, by adopting an amendment by Senator Bray, compromised on the raising of non-resident university fees by requiring a fee of $148 per year (including $24 incidental fee) and permitting the regents to refund fees on basis of scholastic merit to extent of five per cent to worthy students.

The Barwig amendment voted today called for $100 per year plus $24 incidental fee and the original Hambrecht bill provided for total fees of $174 per year with no reduction. The bill now goes to the assembly for concurrence in the amendment. The Barwig amendment was advocated by Senators Barwig, Baxter, Boshard and Culbertson, and opposed by Senators Bennett, Bray, Ackley and Fairchild.

The bill was reconsidered by a vote of 14 to 12. The vote for the final passage was 14 to 11, as follows:

For concurrence in the Barwig amendment: Senators Ackley, Albers, Bennett, Bickler, Bray, Cunningham, Fairchild, Hansen, Kellogg, Martin, Perry, Stevens, Whitman—14.
Against: Senators Barwig, Baxter, Boshard, Culbertson, Cuyler, Mulberger, Topps, Skogmo, Staude-mayer, and Weissleder—11.

Senator Bray said that increased fees for non-resident students were a platform issue of both parties. The senators Barwig and Culbertson replied that if a platform pledge was wrong the legislature should not enact it into law. Senator Bray tried to amend the amendment as a fair compromise between the Hambrecht and Barwig bills.

The senate unanimously confirmed the appointment of Christian F. Norwood, as commissioner of agriculture.

It concurred in an assembly amendment appropriating $100,000 the first year for and to both parties. The assembly survey of the debris and checking over a list of missing, Coroner Hanley raised the estimate to fifty.

HALF HUNDRED LOST
AS CREEK OVERFLOWS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Erie, Pa., Aug. 4.—Coroner D. S. Hanley, before noon today, estimated that fifty persons perished in last night's flood. Mayor Stern at ten o'clock said the number probably would not exceed twenty-five, but at a survey of the debris and checking over a list of missing, Coroner Hanley raised the estimate to fifty.

Find Fourteen Bodies.
With the fourteen bodies, Erie turned to the task of recovering the bodies of victims of last night's floodburst and flood and at nine o'clock fourteen have been placed in a temporary morgue. The flood, caused by an overflow of Mill creek, following the bursting of the Glenwood dam, swept through a section of the city a block in width and a mile long, killing at least twenty-five persons and causing property loss estimated at $3,000,000. The entire police and fire forces of the city worked throughout the night in the ruins, recovering the fourteen bodies from an area that included approximately one-half of the devastated district. The men worked under direction of Mayor W. J. Stern, and the four members of the city council.

In Business District.
The district swept by the flood extends from 26th street and French street in the downtown business section to 10th and State streets, a distance of about a mile. The release of water held back by the dam sent a huge wave five feet high toward the city and by the time it reached the first buildings on 26th street it was created with a mass of debris that acted like a huge battering ram on everything in its track.

NATIONAL GERMANS ON FINAL MATTERS
OF ANNUAL SESSIONAlliance Today Takes Up Closing
Questions of Convention.—Milwaukee May See Next Meet.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

San Francisco, Aug. 4.—Choice of a city for a 1917 convention, election of officers and consideration of mass of business, including several matters of national interest, were on the program today of the eighth biennial convention of the German American Alliance of the United States.

Much interest was shown in several questions expected to come before the convention. One of these was the shipment of war supplies from the United States to Germany's enemies, which was announced as violation of the spirit of neutrality by the president, Dr. C. J. Hexamer, of Philadelphia, at the first day's program. Resolutions dealing with this subject were expected to be presented today. Another matter which announced keen anticipation was an open letter to President Wilson, prepared by a delegate, the presentation of which before the convention had been withheld. Nothing was given out regarding the contents of the letter.

Officers of the organization have stated that the alliance was opposed to national prohibition and some of them said this sentiment probably would be crystallized in some definite resolution today. Re-election of the president and his assistants was predicted today.

For the next convention, however, there was a battle on with honors admittedly in favor of Milwaukee. Other aspirants were: Omaha, New York and Jersey City.

Although the business of the convention was to be completed today, the delegates will remain here for a program of entertainment which does not end until Sunday night.

Thursday will be German Day at the Panama Pacific Exposition.

Germany Suggests Differences be Re-

States Interested in Iberian and Leelanaw.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Aug. 4.—No reports are yet available regarding the cases of the American ship Leelanaw and the British steamers Iberian and Orduna sunk or attacked by German submarines and the latest explosion of a submarine during the capture of the American ship, Pass of Bahama. Reports on the Iberian and Leelanaw, in which the United States is chiefly interested, probably will not be received from the submarine command for another ten days. It is stated here.

In the meantime the American embassy, on instructions from Washington, has put in a request for the Leelanaw's papers and for an official report on the case.

The German government believes this will be a parallel case to that of the American ship William P. Frye, sunk in the south Atlantic on January 28 by the German auxiliary cruiser, Prinz Eitel Friedrich.

In the Frye case the German government has suggested in its latest note that the difference regarding the interpretations of the treaty of 1923 be referred to arbitration and the suggestion, if accepted, it is believed, would settle the case of the Leelanaw as well.

A second category of maritime cases is also occupying the attention of the American embassy and the foreign office.

The cases arrive out of the action of German warships in the Baltic bringing American ships into Swine-münde. Two American vessels, the Pass of Bahama and the Wunstrie, now are tied up there.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 4.—The net result of yesterday afternoon's assembly session in considering appropriation measures, was a slight increase in appropriation over those of the preceding period for the agencies concerned. That the increase in commission was cut $17,000 for the biennial period. It asked for an annual appropriation of $110,000. For the year 1916 the appropriation was still further reduced for 1916. Because of so many absences, the assembly adjourned under great difficulties during the afternoon. When it adjourned until two o'clock this afternoon it was still under a call of the house. Earlier in the afternoon two hours were frittered away in search for members. Officers finally found Assemblymen Prossett, Milwaukee, and Whitcomb, Oconto county, and brought them in.

Oshkosh, Aug. 4.—Several articles of clothing found on the bank of the Fox river near the Chicago & North-western railway bridge this morning, contained in a pocket the following note:

"Oshkosh, August 2, 1915.
"My dear wife: Please pay August Gappe, Sr., $14.00 and Klassen $24.00. Try to think well of me. Lovingly, Henry."

An identification card marked Henry Jacobson, 1238 Grignon street, Green Bay, was also found. Police investigated and found Jacobson was missing from that city where he has been employed lately by George Ryan, the shipbuilder.

The river is being dragged today. It is believed Jacobson, who was a steam tug captain, committed suicide. Last night he applied to Captain Seeger, owner of a steamer which plies the Fox river for permission to stay on the boat during the night. He had evidently been drinking.

HIGH HOPES FOR CITY

Feeling Throughout Russia, France and England That Warsaw May Eventually Evade Capture.

London, Aug. 4.—Near guard fighting of the Russians to the northwest of Warsaw has proved so effective that the German tide seemed to have been held up, while to the south, Field Marshal Von Mackensen's forces pushing north from Lublin, are being badly battered.

About the only Austro-German progress chronicled in the vast, semi-circular front in the east, is toward Riga, in the extreme north and before Invigorated.

Warsaw still holds out and the hope that the Polish capital may yet be saved, is becoming stronger throughout Russia, France and Great Britain.

The German press noted the pause in the Teutonic offensive, and explains that with the daily lengthening of communications, the problem of transportation of reinforcements becomes more complicated, which accounts for the delay. At the same time the efficacy of the Russian rear guard blows is not ignored by the newspapers. The German emperor and his escort heretofore reported on their way to Warsaw for the triumphant entry have had to postpone the completion of the trip. From Warsaw itself comes the optimistic prediction that if the city is about to endure a week longer—and the dispatch was written four days ago—the evacuation may be avoided. Although thousands of civilians have fled, the life of the beleaguered capital is pictured as fairly normal.

Berlin, wireless to Sarville, Aug. 4.—The Overseas News Agency today says the Russian legation at The Hague, Netherlands, has officially announced the evacuation of the city.

The bridges over the Vistula river, the same advices say, have been ordered blown up.

Reports prepared at the front and given out by the Overseas News Agency say the investment of the Russian fortress of Invigorated is progressing.

Some of the outer forts have been stormed according to advices and the possibility of Russian forces within the Citadel escaping is constantly diminishing.

The actual evacuation of the Polish capital was not referred to in the Russian official communication issued in Poland today and no confirmation of the report has been received from any other source.

WAIT WITH INTEREST
OUTCOME OF THE CONFERENCE THURSDAY

Washington, Aug. 4.—Interest in tomorrow's conference on the Mexican problem between Secretary Lansing and diplomatic representatives of six Latin-American countries, was heightened today as further details of the plan for joint co-operation in pacifying the southern republic, came to light.

One of the latest developments is the fact that the decision to ask aid of Central and South America, in settling the Mexican difficulties, was reached by President Wilson in June when his warning to the warring factions to settle their difficulties and restore peace was unheeded.

The diplomats were invited June 30 to participate in a conference while the appeal to Mexican factions was withheld, however, pending the sanction of the plan by Latin-American nations.

ACTIVITY HALTED AT FOUR PLAYGROUNDS

Incessant Rains Cause Ground to be Closed Much—Continue Swimming.

Because of the inclement weather conditions during the past week activities on the four playgrounds have been at a decided standstill. Each time efforts were made to hold an event, rain would put in an appearance and spoil the enjoyment for the children. The attendance at the grounds was also hard hit and below the standard. The number at the swimming classes, however, was affected very little by the rain. Both boys and girls were always on hand when their respective classes were opened in the morning.

Conditions are favorable for the proposed games in the indoor baseball league will be run off beginning Wednesday. The Adams and the Webster nines are tied for the lead, making the race interesting. The Washington and Jefferson schools also have a chance to win the race if they exhibit a reversal of form. But six more games remain to be played. Wednesday the Jefferson and Adams will clash, while Friday the Webster will meet the Second ward nine.

Plans are being made by Director Wier Cox for the holding of the track and field meet, and also the swimming meet. A list of events is being prepared which will be announced next week. The swimming meet will be held in two weeks so that the weather will be agreeable to the swimmers. During the last week of August the track meet will be held at the Janesville Driving Park.

Due to Children's day at the Janesville Fair next Tuesday the playgrounds will close all day so that all the children may attend. Swimming lessons in the morning will also be dispensed with. With the playgrounds closed it was decided by the directors that all the children would be on hand at the fair to take part in the children's events.

At the Webster school playground the Cubs are ahead of the indoor league by a comfortable margin, due mainly to the twirling of Cassidy, who has won five and lost none up to the present time. Following are the standings:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Cubs	5	0	1.000
Braves	2	2	.500
Athletics	2	3	.400
Giants	0	4	.000

BRAVES TAKE THIRD PLACE FROM CHICAGO

Sox Unable to Get Even With the Yanks—Cubs in Two Games Today.—Braves in Third Place.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—Rain prevented both Chicago teams from playing yesterday, the Cubs being balked in their efforts to trounce Pat Moran's leading Phillies at Chicago and the Sox from evening up with the New York Yanks at New York. While idle yesterday the Cubs dropped from a tie for third place into fourth, because the Boston Braves whaled the Pirates twice.

The Cubs, however, are only four games behind the leaders and their playing the double-header today and on Saturday and Sunday will make a big difference in their standing. Since returning to Chicago there has been a decided change in the playing of the Braves, showing more spirit in the four games on the home lot than they did on the eighteen games on the eastern trip. The schedule is largely in favor of the Cubs as they will have practically all the last of the month at the home grounds.

The White Sox play at Washington today and a double-header will probably be staged on the extra games due to the Senators. Scott and Bort will be picked to do the hurling today in this case. So far on the eastern trip the Sox have played five games and won but two of them. In the remaining games of the trip, the Chicago club expects to gain back some of their lost ground but will be handicapped in that Boston and Detroit will face easier victims than the Sox. There are nine more eastern games before the Sox return home, five in Washington and four in Philadelphia.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 4.—The Braves are on their way to their second pennant with the fiery Johnny Evers and Stallings leading the fighting Braves crew. After struggling and fighting all afternoon yesterday the Braves jumped into third place over the Cubs by beating the Pirates twice, 5 to 4, and 7 to 2. Johnny Evers held up his usual fighting average but this time did not mix with the umpire, Manager Clarke being the object of his pugilistic ability. As Evers was passing the Pittsburgh bench in the fourth inning of the second game, he addressed Clarke with a vile name and called him "yellow."

Clarke sprang from his seat and engaged Evers with his fists in a church and after being pummeled again opened the attack. The battle was quickly terminated by the police and players, Evers being taken to the club house.

CHICAGO GREY GAME SCHEDULED SUNDAY

About the Same Team Which Defeated Beloit Fairies Will Be in the Game the Coming Saturday.

Almost the same line-up of the Janesville Cardinals, who defeated the Beloit Fairies in the game of the coming Sunday will be in the game. The Cardinals will be brought back to this city in hopes that rain will not hinder the game. For the infield, Manager Caldwell has secured the giant Almqvist, "Denny" Blake of Belvidere, Kerman at short and a Chicago third baseman. "Home-run" Curtis, Morrissey, Ryan or Driscoll will be in the outfield. Three of these players are on the West End nine and will probably be retained for the game on August 14th and 15th with the United States Army nine of Chicago.

Bob Fuesik will do the pitching and Rasmussen will be behind the bat for the battery. The game scheduled with the Jake Stahl's has been cancelled on the belief that the Army nine will be a better attraction. The Jake Stahl's split even with the Beloit Fairies Saturday and Sunday, beating Jack Wootton, but losing to Sam Laferty. The United States Army nine will play two games here, Saturday during the fair and on Sunday afternoon.

The Chicago Greys are a bunch of young players, their ability to play the game is shown by the fact that their third baseman has been picked as the best semi-pro player in the Windy City and is going with the White Sox for a trial. Their line-up for the coming Sunday's game is announced as being: Diehl, 2b; Nelson, 1b; Jarsah, ss; Baird, c; Forrest, cf; Lyon, if; Snyder, 2b; Held, rf; Carson or Gardner, p. Carson is reported to be a wizard on the mound and will do the pitching here from present indications. A new first baseman has been secured by the Greys.

Negotiations are under way to bring the Chicago Magnets, an undefeated Chicago nine, here in the near future, just before the Beloit series, which will be the climax of the season.

Hyland, Lewis and Dohr, the Madison players, who were secured last Sunday, would be unable to be here for the Chicago Grey game if their teams in the Madison league won Saturday. Because of this, Manager Caldwell did not wish to take a chance and secured the other players.

KNIGHT OF STRATHMORE TO RACE HERE AT FAIR

[By Associated Press.]
Monroe, Wis., Aug. 4.—A Knight of Strathmore, pacer with a record of 2:03 1/2, owned by George Biebler of this city, will be entered in the free-for-all race at the Janesville fair next week. The Knight has just returned from a racing circuit including Aurora, Ottawa, and Macomb, Ill., having won first in two races and third in two races. After a week's rest, it is expected he will be in fine trim for the Janesville races.

TABER, HOLDER OF WORLD'S RECORD IN MILE, NOW AFTER HALF-MILE MARK

Norman Taber.

Norman Taber, the former Brown University athlete and now a Rhodes scholar at Oxford, who recently ran a mile in the Harvard stadium in the world record time of 4 min. 12.5 sec., is after the world's half-mile mark of 1:52 1/2, held by Ted Meredith of the University of Pennsylvania. Taber has never run a half in competition in better than 1:55.

MORRIS MILLER

Branch Rickey, manager for the Browns, thinks a young player is foolish trying to throw curves and other things when he is an infielder, outfielder, or a catcher. It is all right for a hurler, but not for the others on the club. They should school themselves into throwing a straight ball and nothing else. "That's how I lost my arm," says the leader of the Browns. "I once thought I owned a spitter better than Ed Walsh ever had. I threw it one day, and it jumped all over the place. Well, the next day I tried it again, but could do nothing. My arm was gone. That is why I think it is foolish for a player other than a pitcher to try to curve a ball. I learned my lesson when it came to me, and in order not to suffer the same fate, I would advise others not to try it."

Portland has traded Walter Doane for Outfielder Carlisle of Los Angeles.

Eugene Corri believes that Young Ahearn, a middleweight, can whip Jess Willard. The great English referee and authority says that if Fitzsimmons could bowl the heavyweights over, Ahearn can. They have a great respect for Ahearn in England, where they considered him the classiest boxer in the ring. As a matter of fact, Ahearn has developed into a great fighter since quitting England. When Dan McKettrick took him over there recently, Ahearn won the hearts of his countrymen through his work. After he fought Clabby and Gibbons here, both of them refused return fights. Now Ahearn will go out after the heavyweights. "So anxious is he to start after the giants that he inserted an 'ad' in all the papers asking for volunteer heavyweights to meet him in battle. The funny part of it was none of the big fellows broke their necks answering the advertisement."

The jump of Third Baseman Koros from Rochester to the Stouffeds was a hard blow for John Ganzel.

Fred Fulton's claim to fame is based upon an affidavit that he once knocked down Jess Willard. The affidavit does not set forth whether he used a maul or dope.

Steve O'Neill's brother, Jimmy, is said to be about ready for the big show. He is playing shortfield for Utica.

Alexander the Great heads the complaint bureau of the Phils. Whenever there is anything wrong with Fat's machine he always puts it in shape again.

Brooklyn has purchased Pitcher Mails from Seattle for immediate delivery.

Chicago golfers are going to fall into the clutch of the law if they buy any more golf balls from small boys. The youngsters have built up such a business in the parks there that they pilfer many of the balls from golfers on the course to make the profits larger.

Tyrus Raymond Cobb once more has solemnly sworn that from now on he never will play golf during the baseball season. After he gets back to Detroit he will stow his clubs until October, and from now on they will go into the attic each year as soon as the bell rings for the season's start. Cobb has become worried over his failure to keep well above the 400 mark in hitting. It cannot truly be said that a player with his average is storing a club, but he has not been going as well as he should after his start. The motion a golfer makes in addressing a ball for the drive, Cobb says, kills him as a batsman. Also the golfer aims when driving to hit into the air, which is just the thing a ball player should avoid.

Detroit has farmed out Southpaw Oldham to Buffalo.

"A Cautious Lawyer." At Bodmin assizes once a barrister while pleading was interrupted by the judge:

"Mr. Carter, you are wasting the time of the court."

"Time of the court!" retorted the truculent veteran, glaring fiercely at the bench. "Your lordship means—your lordship's dinner!"

The judge threw up his hands in despair, and Carter continued his harangue in peace.

The same redoubtable advocate was on another occasion defending a man charged with obtaining money under false pretenses.

"False pretenses!" said he, with fine scorn. "Why, we all make them every day, barristers and solicitors and judges—the whole lot of us. Talk about the purity of the judicial ermine!" Here he pointed derisively to the learned judge, who sat cowering on the bench. "Why, it's only rabbit skin!"

Shouts of laughter greeted this irreverent statement, which investigation would probably show to be literally true.—London Tit-Bits.

Spots on the Sun.

Strictly speaking, spots on the sun are not spots, because they are shifting in form and of changing duration in particular localities. Scientists do not account for them definitely, but they are supposed to be floating masses of gaseous matter, enough lighter than the main body of the sun to form obscuring shadows on its surface. Of whatever material they are composed they belong to the sun. They are never entirely stationary or quiescent, but form and reform continually. "The length of their life," says a scientist, "is difficult to assign, because there is some tendency for a new group to arise where an old one has disappeared, but one is recorded which appeared on the same place for eighteen months. The average is perhaps two months. They play some part in the magnetic action of the sun, but it is not known what."

TAXPAYERS TURN

The anti-administration forces at Madison aided by a publicity bureau which has not been careful with the facts have had their day at the capitol and now it is the tax payers turn. Governor Philipp is giving the people the benefit of six months' hard work in the amendments which are being introduced in the legislature cutting down the appropriations for the next two years. Since, the legislature was organized the finance committee which has been dominating at times by anti-Philipp men has been working on the appropriation bills. As has been the custom in past years the finance committee has asked heads of departments to appear with their demands. Someone in the finance committee conceived the idea that if the demands were cut that would be a saving to the tax payers. Whether by a pre-arranged plan or not heads of departments who were in the capitol before Governor Philipp arrived upon his term have been so generous in their demands that a considerable cut could be made and still have an appropriation greater than that of two years ago.

Governor Philipp, however, believes that the way to save money for the tax payers is to save it. He long ago gave warning that he would insist upon a reduction of taxes. To prepare himself to make that reduction without crippling any department he engaged the services of men trained to the work, at his own expense, and told them to find out what each department had expended during the last two years.

The difference between Governor Philipp and his opponents was that Governor Philipp was trying to carry out his plan of reducing taxes while his opponents were trying to load up the appropriation bills, as they did those sent to Governor McGovern two years ago and also to save the jobs of some of the faithful. The first gun fired by the governor created consternation in the legislature. He not only supported an amendment introduced by Speaker Whittey cutting down the appropriations made by the finance committee for the Board of Control something like $400,000, but when this cut was questioned he was supported by the president and secretary of the Board of Control. Many other amendments have been introduced and others have been prepared, all based on expenditures for the last two years, and not one of them cutting the departments under that figure.

The result would be amusing were it not for the serious effect it might have upon people who may not understand the situation. After running around in circles for several days the representatives of the tax-eating trusts have decided to announce to the people that the governor is crippling the state departments. They seem not to have a saving grace of the sense of humor. Instead of joining with the governor at this late day in economy they can be seen in committee rooms and in the dark corners of the capitol corridors armed with books and figures trying to figure out a way by which the governor still can be defeated. It is apparent that they have no sense of their duty to their constituents and with the blindness of the fanatic of other times they are rushing headlong to the inevitable—the wrath of the long suffering taxpayers.

One of the amusing things which has happened is a product of the publicity bureau published in the few ultra-progressive papers in the state, which says that the governor has even gone so far as to cripple the railroad commission. It is interesting to note that at a special meeting of the finance committee, called and attended by anti-Philipp members on Saturday, the appropriations recommended by the governor for this commission were cut $10,000, and that that report appears on an assembly calendar with a recommendation for passage.

ENGLAND'S CHECKMATE.
 England's course in advising this government that another note regarding the new famous Order in Council is being prepared and in requesting that the communication be received by the supplementary note is received is an occasion of considerable embarrassment to President Wilson. Mr. Wilson purposed to follow the last note to Germany with one of equal vigor to England, believing he could thus dispel the impression that he was in any degree partisan in his insistence that Americans be free to sail the high seas in the ships of beligerents as well as in those of American registry, and on ships carrying contraband cargoes as well as those carrying none. The note to England had already been drafted when the announcement of a supplementary communication came from that country and necessitated at least a temporary suspension of the note that country had under preparation. There is much speculation here, but no knowledge, regarding the views which England purposes to set forth in this supplement. There is some reason for believing, however, that the British government may be preparing to abandon the long-range blockade and to substitute for it a material increase in the proclaimed contraband of war, including cotton. The British ambassador has been studying precedents set by this country and has advised his government that the United States has established a precedent for making cotton contraband.

These rains are just what the country needed. Too bad they did not come earlier. July, for instance, had one bright day without a shower.

Roosevelt has gone back to the progressives along with Murdock. However, no one need tremble about what they will accomplish.

Baseball fans are seriously considering starting water polo in place of the national sport. Even golfers are discouraged.

Mexico is getting real sassy these days. They even send soldiers across the border to cope with the much-hated "Gringo."

Nothing doing at Madison in the way of a possible adjournment as yet. It may come in time for the fall harvest.

Just a little sunshine and then fair week with its wonderful display of produce and fat stock and horse flesh.

She got the entire twelve post cards, one for each week-day, and all with lovely views of the same wave. When he returned home, peering handsomely from sunburn, his first question was, "You got all my cards, I hope?"
 "I have twelve," she replied.
 "The views of that wave were lovely and I appreciated handwriting as much as ever, and the dates were all put in beautifully, but still—"

"Well, you must have given them to an awful bonehead to mail for you to save you the trouble. He mailed them all on one day, just as I wrote them, and I got the whole twelve two days after you left."
 Excusing himself, Wingram called a taxi and rode thirteen miles out into the country and sat on a fence with his thoughts.

Man's Debt to the Candle.
 After the lamp came the candle, whose modest ray we are inclined to regard with a considerable amount of kindness and esteem. But for the candle the dark ages of the world would have been dark in a still more literal sense than they already were, and to this humble servant civilized mankind was indebted for the very best illuminant it possessed, certainly until the latter end of the eighteenth century, and probably right up to the time of the invention of gas.

"It's to save me the trouble of fetching the ladder tomorrow when monsieur will have come round to the views of madame."

"Father of Modern Screw."
 Jesse Ramsden, an English inventor, is credited with being the father of the modern screw. He began in 1775 to pay special attention to the making of screws by machinery, and his invention may be regarded as the first example of the modern form of screw-cutting lathe, although 50 years before there had been made in France a machine for cutting the thread on the fuses of watches, and 200 years before Jacob Bessemer had designed a rude lathe for cutting wooden screws.

CRISCO

For Frying—For Shortening For Cake Making

Without exception, cooking authorities agree that deep frying not only is more healthful but more economical than shallow frying.

You can fry many foods in deep fat which you now fry in the pan or skillet.

With Crisco there is no smoke in the kitchen because Crisco reaches frying point without smoking. Test for proper heat with a bit of the food, you are about to cook.

Use plenty of Crisco—about 3 lbs. on an average, so that the heat will not be reduced when the raw food is added bit by bit. There practically is no absorption if plenty of Crisco is used and the temperature kept high.

There is a great saving, because of the small amount absorbed and because you may use the same Crisco over and over. In fact, you can fry fish, onions and potatoes all in the same Crisco. Strain out the food particles after each frying.

A crisp, brown crust forms almost instantly. Then the inside bakes instead of soaks. Because of this fact and Crisco's vegetable origin, fried foods now are most wholesome. Here is an excellent recipe:

Potato Croquettes

(Level measurements)

2 pints mashed potatoes	2 tablespoonfuls Crisco
2 eggs	1 tablespoonful chopped parsley
Salt, pepper and red pepper to taste

Mash potatoes by rubbing them through wire sieve with back of wooden spoon. Dissolve Crisco, add it to potatoes with 1 of the eggs well beaten and seasonings. Mix and divide into 10 or 12 pieces, form them into neat croquettes, brush over with remaining beaten egg, toss in breadcrumbs, and fry in hot Crisco.

CHAPTER XXII.

Love.

Allison swept Gail into his arms, and rained hot kisses upon her, crushing her closely to him. She offered no resistance, and the very fact that she held so supinely in his arms, made Allison release her sooner than he might otherwise have done. She had known that this experience must come, that no look or gesture or word of hers could ward it off.

"You must never do that again," she told him, stepping back from him, and regaining her breath with an effort. She had lingered in the front parlors to receive him before her Uncle Jim should know that he was in the house, and she had led him straight into the little ice-cream reception room. She meant to free herself quickly.

"Why not?" he laughed, and advanced toward her, taking her attitude lightly, ascribing her action to a girlish whim, confident in his power over her. He meant to dispose of her coyness by taking her in his arms again. She belonged to him.

"Mr. Allison." The tone was cold enough, and deadly in earnest enough to arrest him.

"What's the matter, Gail?" he protested, ready to humor her, to listen to what she had to say, to smooth matters over.

"You have no right," she told him.

"Yes I have," he jovially assured her. "I hope I don't have to wait until after marriage for a kiss. If that's the case I'll take you out and marry you right now."

There was an infection in his laugh, contagion in the assumption that all was right between them, and that any difference was one which could be straightened out with jolly patience, and Gail, though her determination would not have changed, might have softened toward him, had she not seen in his face a look which paled her lips. Ever since last night he had anticipated her, had dreamed on the time when he should take her for his own; and his eyes were cloudy with his thoughts of her.

"Let us have a clear understanding, Mr. Allison." She was quite erect, and looking him directly in the eyes. Her eyes were deep and troubled, and the dark trace which had been about them in the morning had deepened. "I told you last night that I should need time, which to decide; I have decided. I shall not marry you."

He returned her gaze for a moment, and his brow clouded.

"You've changed since last night," he charged her.

"Possibly," she admitted. "It is more likely, however, that I have merely crystallized. I prefer not to discuss it." She saw on his face the growing instinct to humiliate her.

"You must discuss it," he insisted. "Last night when I took you in my arms you made no objection. I was justified in doing it again tonight. You're not a fool. You knew from the first that I wanted you, and you encouraged me. Now, I'm entitled to know what has made the change."

The telltale red spots began to appear in her cheeks.

"You," she told him. "Last night, your scheme of world empire seemed a wonderful thing to me, but since then I've discovered it cannot be built without dishonesty and cruelty; and you've used both."

His brow cleared. He laughed heartily.

"You've been reading the papers. There isn't a man in the financial field who wouldn't do everything I've done; and be proud of it. I can make you see this in the right light, Gail."

"It's a proof of your moral callousness that you think so," she informed him. "Can you make me see it in the right light that you even used me, of whom you pretended to think sacredly enough to marry, to help you in your most despicable trick of all?"

"Look here," he protested. "That would be impossible! You're misinformed."

"I wish I were," she returned. "Unfortunately, it is a matter of direct knowledge. You caused Veder court to be torn down because I thought it should be wiped out of existence, and in the process you cheated Market Square church out of six million dollars!"

He could not have been more shocked if she had struck him.

"I knew you did not understand," he kindly reproved her. "I didn't want those old buildings. They couldn't have sold them for the wreckage price. When you suggested that they should be torn down, I saw it. They were a public menace, and the public was right with the movement. The condemnation price will cover all my source. You see, you don't understand business," and his tone was forgiving.

"I'd have been foolish to pay six million dollars for something I couldn't use. You know, Gail, when the building commissioners came to look over those buildings, they were shocked! Some of them wouldn't have stood up another year. It was only the political influence of Clark and Chisholm and a few of the other big guns of the congregation, which kept them from being condemned long ago. You shouldn't interfere in business. It always creates trouble between man and wife," and he advanced to put his arm around her, and soothe her.

The hand with which she warded him off was effective this time. She stared at him in wonder. It seemed inconceivable that the moral sense of any intelligent man should be so blunted.

"There's another reason," she told him, despairing of making him realize that he had done anything out of the way. "I do not love you. I could not."

For just a moment he was checked; then his jaws set.

"That is something you must learn. You have young notions of love, gleaned from poetry and fiction. You conceive it to be an ideal stage of existence, a mysterious something almost too delicate for perception by the human senses. I will teach you love, Gail! Look," and he stretched up his arm, as if in his grip he already held the reins of the mighty empire he was hewing out for her.

"Love is a thing of strength, of power, of desire which shakes, and burns, and consumes with fever! Do you suppose that, with such love driving me on, any objection which you may make will stop me? No! I set out to attain you as the summit of my desire, the only thing in this world I want, and will have!"

Again that great fear of him possessed Gail. She feared many things. She feared that, in spite of her determination, he would still have her, and in that possibility alone lay the other fears so gruesome that she did not dare see them clearly! She knew that she must retain absolute control of herself.

"I shall not discuss the matter any further," she quietly said, and walking straight towards the door, passed by him, quite within the reach of his arm, without either looking at him or away from him. Something within his own strength respected hers, in spite of him. "I have said all that I have to say."

"So have I," he replied, coming closer to her as she stood in the doorway, and he gazed down at her with eyes in which there was insolent determination, and cruelty. "I have said that I mean to have you, and I will."

Without a word, she went into the hall. He followed her, and took his hat.

"Good evening," he said formally.

"Good evening," she replied, and he went out of the door.

When he had gone, she flew up to her room, her first coherent thought being that she had accomplished it! She had seen Allison, and had given him her definite answer, and had gotten him out of the house while the others were back in the billiard room. She had held up splendidly, but she was weak now, and quivering in every limb, and she sank on her divan, supported on one outstretched arm; and in this uncomfortable position she took up the eternal question of Gail.

The angry tears of mortification sprang into her eyes!

The library was quite steadily devoted to Veder court tonight. A highly important change had come into the fortunes of Market Square church. It was as if a stone had been thrown in to a group of cardboard houses. All the years of planning had gone the way of the wind, and the card houses had all to be built over again. The cathedral had receded by a good five years, unless the force and fire of Rev. Smith Boyd should be sufficient to coax capital out of the pockets of his millionaire congregation; and, in fact, that quite normal plan was already under advisement.

The five of this impromptu counsel were deep in the matter of ways and means, when a slender apparition, in clinging gray, came down the stairs.

It was Gail, who, for some reason unknown, even to her, had decided that she was selfish; and Rev. Smith Boyd's heart ached as he saw the pallor on her delicately tinted cheeks and the dark trailing about her brown eyes.

She slipped quietly in among them. Her brown hair loosely waved, so that unexpected threads of gold shone in it when she passed under the chandelier, and she greeted the callers pleasantly, and sat down in the corner, very silent. She was glad that she had come. It was restful in this little circle of friends.

A noise filled the hall, and even the lights of the library seemed to brighten, as Lucile and Ted, Arly and Gerald, and Dick Rodley, came tumbling in, laughing and chattering, and carrying hilarity in front of them like a wave. Gail shoved her tangle of thoughts still farther back in her head, and the sparkle returned into her eyes.

"We're bringing you a personal invitation to Arly and Gerald's yacht party," jabbered Lucile, kissing everybody in reach except Rev. Smith Boyd.

"You might let Arly extend the invitation herself," objected Ted.

"I've given the pleasure to Gerald," laughed Arly, with a vivacious glance at that smiling gentleman. "He does it so much better. Now listen."

"It's a little informal week-end party, on the Whitecap," Gerald informed them, with a new something in him which quite satisfactorily took the place of cordiality. "Sort of a farewell affair. Arly and I are about to take a selfish two months' cruise, all by ourselves," and he glanced fondly at the handsome black-haired young woman under discussion. "We should be pleased to have you join us," and he included Mrs. Boyd and the young rector with a nod.

"Of course we'll come," agreed Gail. "Doctor Boyd, can't you arrange for a week-end party once in your life?"

"Unfortunately custom has decreed that week-end parties shall cover Sundays," he regretted, but there was a calculating look in his eye which sent Lucile over to him.

"Play hooky just once," she begged. "This is only a family crowd, the Babbits and Marion Kenneth, and we who are here."

Rev. Smith Boyd looked at his mother, and that lady brightened visibly.

"When is it to be?" he asked.

"Saturday," Arly informed him, joining Lucile, who had sat on the arm of Mrs. Boyd's chair. Arly sat on the other one, and Gerald Fosland, with an entirely new appreciation of beauty, thought he had never seen a prettier picture than the sweet-faced old lady with the fresh and charming young women on either side of her.

Rev. Smith Boyd glanced, for just an instant, at Gail, who was now sitting on the leather couch leaning confidently against her Aunt Grace. He had been at some pains to avoid this young lady recently, for it is natural to spare one's self distress; but there was a look of loneliness about her which sent his heart out to her in quick sympathy.

"I think I'll play hooky," he announced, with a twinkle in the eyes which he now cast upon his mother.

"That's being a good sport," approved Ted. "Stay away a Sunday or two, and Market Square church will appreciate you better."

"Let's have some music," demanded Lucile.

"Gail and Doctor Boyd must sing for you," announced Aunt Grace, in whom there was a trace of wistfulness. "They do sing so beautifully together!"

"I'm afraid I can't tonight," refused Gail hastily, and indeed she had good reason why her voice should not have its firm and true quality just now. "I will accompany Doctor Boyd, though, with pleasure," and she started toward the music room.

Rev. Smith Boyd was out off from the ordinary lies about not being in good voice, and suffering from a slight cold, and such things. He hesitated a moment, and then he followed.

The Bedouin Love Song, the Garden of Sleep, and others of the solo repertoire which Gail had selected for him, came pulsing out of the music room, first hesitantly, and then with more strength, as the friendly nearness between himself and the accompanist became better established.

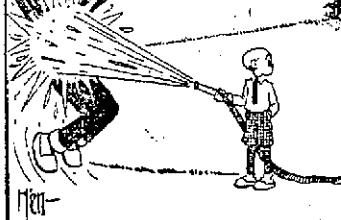

Presently, the listeners in the library noticed an unusual pause between the songs, a low-voiced discussion, and then, the two perfectly blended voices rose in a harmony so perfect that there was moisture in the eyes of two of the ladies present.

Dinner Stories

A merited rebuke is not always a retort courteous. The rebuke that was administered to a party of intruding tourists by the old watchman who was guarding the ruins of Cologne hall at Walsley not long after the great fire conveyed a keen but subtle reproach.

"We've got to keep out," he ordered gruffly, when he detected them trying to slip under the ropes that surrounded the crumbling walls.

The inquisitive visitors paused and eyed first the ragged walls and then the determined guardian.

"No," he replied, and then leaning over confidentially: "I haven't tasted anything stronger than tea in a year."

"We've got to keep out, I ain't thinkin' of your lives; I'm thinkin' of me job,"—Youth's Companion.

The new member of congress was enjoying the hospitality of one of the most amiable and attractive women of the capital, and was doing admirably until she led him into trouble with the remark:

"I am afraid you will find Washington rather dull at present. There is very little excitement, excepting what you find in the way of duty at the capitol."

"It is rather monotonous," he asserted.

"No doubt you have an occasional Maquias quart d'heure?"

"No," he replied; and then leaning over confidentially: "I haven't tasted anything stronger than tea in a year."

"Hello, Smith," said Jones. "Glad to see you out of the hospital again. I hear they cut out your appendix."

"Yes," said Smith sadly. "They did. But that isn't a circumstance to what they did to my bank account."

A tent in the back yard is a great joy to children; it helps to keep house and yard looking neat, for the children can be expected and required to keep their playthings in the tent when they are told that it is their exclusive playground and that they must confine any untidiness to that particular spot.

WHAT TO DO FOR ITCHING SKINS

Eczema, ringworm and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need not hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is, the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful that thousands of other physicians have been prescribing it constantly for 20 years. Resinol stops itching instantly, and almost always heals the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's.

CLEARs BLOTCHY SKIN

Try resinol soap for a week. You will be surprised to see how it clears and freshens your complexion, even in that short time. Used for the shampoo, it removes dandruff and keeps the hair live, rich and lustrous. This is because it contains the soothing, healing resinol medication.

Optimist and Pessimist.
Optimist is derived from the Latin optimus, best, that being the superlative degree of bonus, better, optimum, good, better, best. Pessimist is derived from pessimus, bad, worse, worst. Optimist, therefore, represents the best in everything, and pessimist exactly the opposite or the worst. An optimist is one who looks on the bright side of things and takes hopeful views, while a pessimist sees only the dark side. The two words have figurative applications in religion, in politics and in everyday life.

DANGER AT CALAIS SHOWN TO ENGLAND

Englishman Points Out Grave Danger of Invasion of England if Germans Capture This Point.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
London, Aug. 4.—The war on the French front has now developed into a race between Lloyd George and the German General Staff for Calais, declares Lloyd George, a prominent British writer, in a letter to the Mail, urging that everything else should be temporarily laid aside in England for the work of informing the efforts of the new Minister of Munitions.
"With the Germans and their monster guns at Calais, we should lose control of the narrow seas," writes Mr. Fraser. "If we are not quick to capture Calais, the German navy and guns in time Calais may be saved."
"There is every reason to believe that the Germans will soon strike another blow at Calais. It is no answer to say that they tried and failed last November. The first battle of Ypres was a hurried affair which developed on both sides without careful preparation. The next time the Germans try to burst through they will throw into the attack every ounce, and they will only move when they are able to advance with a strength which they think overwhelming."
"The enemy regards the seizure of Calais as an essential prelude to the destruction of England. The question is far graver than the country thinks, and the attack will probably come this summer or autumn."
"This country still laughs at talk of invasion. Not many months ago it was laughing at Zeppelins. No one laughs at Zeppelins now. Far stranger and more unlikely things than the invasion of England have already happened in this war. The German talk of invading England is more than a threat. They began to think about it very early in the war, and in their usual practical manner began to prepare for it. They have ready today the transport, the trucks, the railway sidings, and the stores."
"If they make the attempt, it ought not to succeed, but there is more than a chance that they might effect a landing. The British are not prepared to admit of detailed public discussion, but it ought to be regarded quite seriously and gravely. The best authorities now believe that the Germans will try to land."

Mr. Fraser is not sanguine as to the situation in Russia or the Dardanelles, but believes that England must fight out the war right at her doorstep, in Northern France.
"The Germans," he observes, "believe they are winning the war, and if a stranger from another planet alighted among us and judged by surface indications alone he would probably think so, too. Take the Western theatre: the Allies are stuck fast; the French, who have done wonders on their own part, are waiting for the British. The British are waiting for more weapons and more shells, and as we have now reached midsummer, they will wait a long time. All through Europe, there is not a single big man visible, for this is a war of myriads directed by pygmies."

"The country ought also to know the real significance of the Russian retreat in Galicia. There has been far too much talk about magnificent withdrawals and the unimportance of Lemberg. The fact is that though Russia has fought bravely, she can do nothing much more this summer owing to the lack of munitions and other causes, and unless the coming winter is much harder than the last, her movements may be greatly restricted until next spring."
"The Dardanelles is almost too painful a subject to write about. We must stick to it now, but we only win on the one hand, and the other is at grave risks, and to get through we may need diversions from other quarters which are not yet forthcoming."

TWO NEW WAR POSTS IN FRENCH OFFICES

France Undertaking Steps of Centralizing Government's Military Organization.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, Aug. 4.—The passage of the law framed by Jean Hennessy, empowering the French government to appoint two more Under Secretaries of State for War, in addition to the one now charged with overseeing the production of munitions, is still another step along the line of centralized development of the government's military organization. The new Under Secretaries will be under Mr. Minard, who is in charge of the military, and Mr. Albert Thomas, the Under Secretary charged with the production of munitions. In France, in contrast to England, there is but one civil head of everything pertaining to arm operations, and that head is the War Minister.

The two posts just created include the sanitary service of the army on the one hand, and the food and clothing of the fighting men of France on the other. The administration of both has been the subject of some little parliamentary criticism of late; it has, therefore, been thought wise to give the parliamentary critics some definite personality to whom to address their observations.
Mr. Justin Godart, self a Deputy and one of the Vice-Presidents of the Chamber of Deputies, a Radical-Socialist who has made a specialty of legislation dealing with labor problems, and especially those phases having to do with the hygiene of labor, has been appointed the Under Secretary of State for War with the control of the military sanitary service. His job is to be a sort of civil head of everything in the French conduct of their great task. Mr. Godart is a lawyer and a young man, having been born in Lyons in 1871. He began his political career as Deputy for the Rhone in 1906.

Speaking of his work, and particularly that part of it which will have to do with solving the problem of what is to become of those so badly wounded in the war as to be incapacitated for ordinary occupations, Mr. Godart said to an editor of Le Matin:
"It is not enough to nurse and to care for them; the social issues which they have lost must also be regained somehow. I am speaking more particularly of those who have been permanently mutilated by war. Those whose faculties and aptitudes have been diminished by the war must be followed up in their civil life when they have returned to it, and re-educated for their new existence. This work is of course especially a work for the future; but it is better to begin to think about it now."

The man who is to be a sort of civil quartermaster for the French army is known as Thierry d'Audoubert. He was born in Alsace, Haguenau, in 1857—when Alsace was still a part of France. After the seizure of Alsace by Germany in 1871, Joseph Thierry moved to Breslau, where he practiced law until elected to the Chamber of Deputies in 1888. From that time on, he has given the greater part of his life to politics. He is a distinguished economist, and has been chairman of the tariff committee of the chamber of deputies as well as vice chairman of the budget committee. At one time, he gave a great deal of attention to the French merchant marine, and was the author of a bill dealing with that question.
On March 21, 1913, in the cabinet of which Barthou was premier, Joseph Thierry was Minister of Public Works, a post for which he was considered eminently fitted.

Two Hundred Fifty Horses In Janesville Fair Races; George Gano in Exhibition

Two hundred and fifty-six horses will race at the Janesville Fair next week. The list of the horses that have been planned. This number will rival the list of the Wisconsin state fair and will in all probability be one of the largest lists at any course in this section of the country this season.

Word has been received from M. L. Anderson that he will arrive in Janesville tonight with his many track beauties and fast steeds. Among them will be Liberty Patch, 2:09½, entered in the free-for-all race over the mile track on Friday, the 12th; Gay Patch, entered in the three-year-old or under race on Friday, the 12th; Wood Patch, entered in the three-year-old or under race on Friday, the 12th; Bright Patch, entered in the three-year-old or under race on Friday, the 12th; and Dolly Deved, entered in the 2:30 trot over the half-mile track the first day. The first four named are by the late 1:55 Horse Farm, located at Savage, Minnesota. Mr. Anderson will be accompanied by J. J. Deviney, a blacksmith.

Followers of the racing game will be pleased to know that Mr. Anderson will also bring with him George Gano, 2:02½, the under saddle racer, 145 pounds, who set the world's record of 2:12, set by Krueger, chalking the new mark at 2:11½. George Gano will give an exhibition over the mile track under saddle, the day of the exhibition to be decided later.

The consolation purse of $300, trot or pace on the mile track, is receiving attention. Horses with records better than 2:10 are to be barred. Entries must be made with Secretary or Superintendent of Speed not later than Thursday at 7:20 p. m. The right is reserved to declare this race off if not filled satisfactory.

A Lasting Window Polish.

There is an art in washing windows, and if they are properly polished the operation need not be repeated for a long time. A really good polish will survive several rainstorms and will only require the dust to be removed occasionally with a dry cloth. The inside of the windows should be washed with tepid water, without soap or powder of any kind, rubbed dry with chemicals and polished with cheesecloth. A solution for cleaning the outside should be made from one ounce of pulverized whiting, one ounce of grain alcohol, one of liquid ammonia and a pint of water. Spray the window with clear water to remove surface dirt, and apply the solution with a soft cloth. Let this dry on. Afterward polish with cheesecloth or tissue paper. If the glass has been badly scratched a filling may be applied. This consists of an ounce of white wax dissolved in turpentine. It should be applied before the polishing.—Washington Star.

Questions.

There are many different kinds of questions, but, roughly speaking, they all may be included in the following three divisions; first, those which can be answered; second, those which may be answered; third, those which should not be answered. Illustrating the first division are those questions which others never ask of you and those which you never care to hear others answer; the second includes questions which are pointed, private, perplexing and political; in fact, any questions which simperons assert cannot be answered; the third division, questions which should not be answered, includes what? Well, that is a question which should not be asked.

Some people ask questions because they wish to know more; some ask them because they desire to show what they already know, and some ask them because they want to show what others do not know.—Life.

A Matter of Temperature.

Hospitality is a good deal a matter of latitude, I suspect. The shade of a palm tree serves an African for a hat. His dwelling is all door and no walls. Everybody can come in. To make a morning call on an Eskimo acquaintance one must creep through a long tunnel. His house is all walls and no door except such a one as an apple with a worm hole has. One might very probably trace a regular gradation between these two extremes, in cities where the evenings are generally hot the people have porches at their doors, where they sit, and this is, of course, a provocative to the interchange of civilities. A good deal which in colder climates is ascribed to mean dispositions belongs really to mean temperature.—Holmes.

WANTED—Man to work on farm. F.
L. Terwilliger, phone 5223 black.

Janesville Gazette,
Janesville, Wis.

Gentlemen:

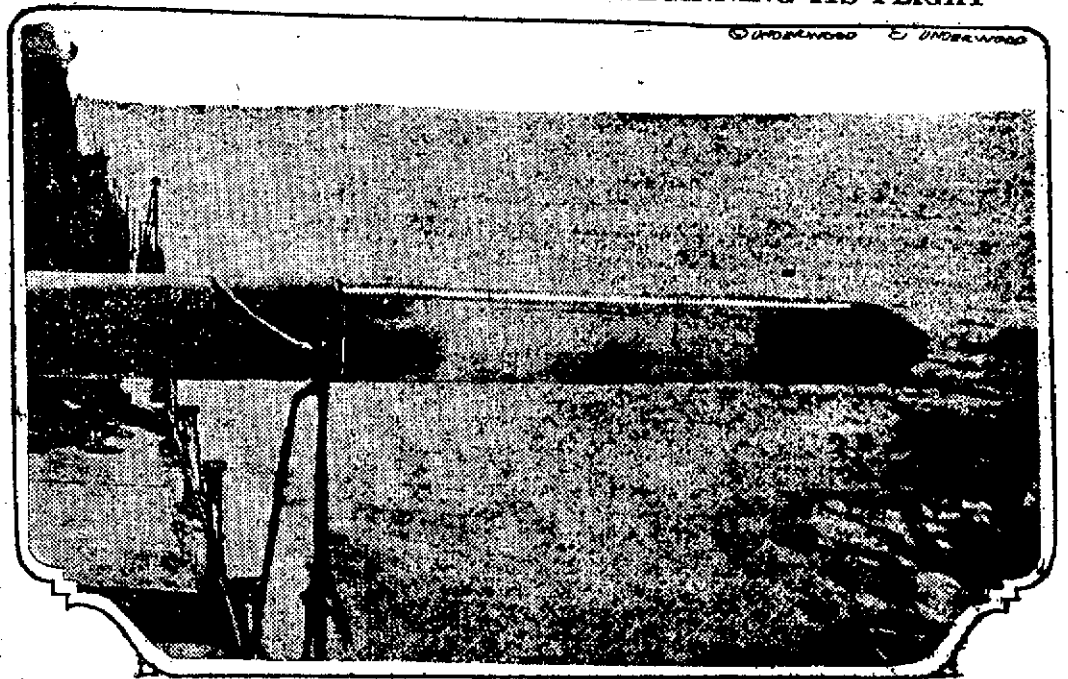

The other day I invested in a want ad in your paper as I was in need of a man to help with the farm work. The small sum of 25c was necessary.

By the next noon after the first insertion, I had my man and since then have had answers to the ad from men sufficient to farm Janesville township. It sure "pays to advertise" in the Gazette.

Yours truly,

F. L. TERWILLIGER.

MODERN MESSENGER OF DEATH BEGINNING ITS FLIGHT

Remarkable photograph showing torpedo in act of leaving tube.

Torpedoes from battleships have not played the prominent part that was expected of them, but they are now being used as destructives as the torpedoes shot from the submarine.
